

Hearing set in January for tunnel proposal

William Murphy
November 28, 2007

State Sen. Carl Marcellino (R-Syosset) said yesterday that he would host a public hearing during the third week in January on a proposal to put traffic tunnels under the Long Island Sound.

Marcellino said he has asked for testimony from Garden City developer Vincent Polimeni, who floated the idea of a privately funded tunnel system running from Syosset to Rye in Westchester County.

Civic and business leaders, state and local officials, traffic experts, environmentalists and others would be expected to testify during the fact-finding forum.

Polimeni is proposing a privately funded, 16-mile tunnel that he says would carry up to 80,000 vehicles each day by 2025.

Spokesman Gary Lewi said Polimeni welcomed an opportunity to make a public case for the plan. "We are delighted that there will be a public platform for an idea that has generated such widespread interest," Lewi said.

Marcellino said the final date for the hearing has not been set because the legislative calendar for 2008 is not completed.
